

Student Undergraduate Research Program

SURP strengthens faculty-student ties through a variety of professional activities: structured mentoring, supervision of research projects, and teaching opportunities. The goal of this program is to foster a culture of research and prepare students for the expectations of graduate school. The SURP program funds student research projects as well as travel and supplies. Summer research support is also available. Candidates have made presentations at AACTE, the National Association of Professional Development Schools Annual Conference, NERA, NACC, among other venues.