Our Big Move!

As of Monday, December 17, 2012, the Academic Support Center will be relocated to the lower level of Raubinger Hall. Our new facilities will include: individual tutoring rooms, larger computer labs, capabilities for a study hall, and accessibility to additional offices! The Office of Testing, First Year Foundations, The Educational Opportunity Fund, First Year Experience, and The Education Enrichment Center will now be within your reach!

Top 5 Study Tips

To help you prepare for Finals!

1. Time

Strategically plan your study time. Cramming the night before, not only produces stress, but also decreases your confidence in the material; you are realizing too late how much you did not know. Give yourself enough time to ask questions!

2. Practice

When studying take the time to go over old tests, quizzes, previous homework and especially, your mistakes! Believe it or not, looking at your previous mistakes will teach you what not to do on the exams.

3. Talk

Study in a group, or utilize your professor's office hours. Talking about the subjects you are studying for will help you organize it in your head. If you can explain the material to someone else, you are on a good path to reach proficiency.

4. Routine

Following a specific routine week to week will help reinforce the material. Visiting the same places to study, such as the library or listening to music in your room, can assist in helping you remember the material.

5. Brain Food/Reward

After completing a challenging task, fuel your body with nutritious food that will help you stay focused. Also, distress and reward yourself with things that you enjoy doing... Go to the movies, dance Zumba, prepare your favorite snack. You've been working hard and deserve a break.
