

Would you like to become a TRAINED advocate for the Domestic Violence Response Team (DVRT) and the Sexual Assault Response Team (SART)?

WPU's Campus Violence Prevention Program, Campus Victim Services, and Passaic County Women's Center are collaborating once again to bring you this comprehensive training.

- Are you a member of the WPU community (students, faculty, professional staff or administrator)?
- Are you interested in becoming a volunteer advocate for victims of domestic/dating violence or sexual assault?
- Would you like to receive free DVRT and SART training?

Training is provided by Passaic County Women's Center

This dual domestic violence and sexual assault training will be held on campus during the Fall 2015 semester on Fridays from 10am-3pm.

Volunteers respond to campus police headquarters to assist victims of domestic/dating violence and/or sexual assault.

If you are interested in training and volunteering, please email Theresa Bivaletz, Campus Victim Services Coordinator, 973-720-2578, bivaletzt@wpunj.edu.

You can pick up an application at The Women's Center (SC313) or at the WPU Police Department.

For more information about Passaic County Women's Center, please contact Caitlin at 973-881-0725, ext. 206 or cgeorge@njaconline.org.
