

The Gandhian Forum for Peace & Justice presents

Money, Schools & Justice

The politics of funding public education

A talk by Rethinking Schools editor

Stan Karp

Stan Karp taught English and Journalism in the Paterson, New Jersey, public schools for 30 years. He is currently Director of the Secondary Reform Project for New Jersey's Education Law Center. He has been a long-time editor for Rethinking Schools magazine and written widely on education and public policy. He is the co-editor of several books, including Rethinking Our Classrooms: Teaching for Equity and Justice, and Rethinking School Reform: Views from the Classroom.

Thursday, November 3, 2016

2:00-3:15 p.m.

Cheng Library Auditorium

Main Campus

5:30-6:30 p.m.

Auditorium

Valley Road Campus

Co-sponsored by the College of Education, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences, the Department of Political Science, the Social Justice Project, and the Office of the Provost.