LEARNING ASSESSMENT

Grading for this course will be based on the following two (2) factors:

Cases (60%) There will be four (4) assigned (bolded and italicized) cases due on the dates indicated on the schedule.

Please make full use of the materials on Blackboard, namely: Notes on Effective Written Communications and Analyze Don't Comment!!

Discussion Boards (40%) There will be a series of eight (8) discussions boards (each consisting of three topics) ... as indicated on the course schedule.

Again, please make full use of the materials on Blackboard, namely:

Discussion Board Strategy.

My Approach to Grading

I rank all students in order of their total scores ... and then determine what letter grade the first and last students deserve. The remaining grades are then spread between these two extremes with the same grade being awarded to those students receiving the same score or range of scores.

SOME ADDITIONAL NOTES

1 Preparation of the Assigned Materials

It is imperative that you devote the appropriate and adequate amount of time to the preparation of each of the assignments ... especially in such a short, online course.

2. Problems/Discussions

If you have a problem or concern and want to speak with me, call and leave a message (973) 616-7097 or e-mail me ... and I will get back to you as soon as possible.

3. Make-up Work or Extra Work

Unless offered to the class as a whole, no make-up or extra work will be assigned to individual students for the purpose of improving their grade. Such assignments are (a) generally impossible to evaluate and (b) unfair to other students.

4. Appealing a Grade

No grading system is perfectly equitable. Under normal circumstances, you should receive a grade within one step (either up or down) from the one you deserve. If, at the end of the semester, you wish to appeal your grade, you should do so in writing summarizing, in detail, the basis for your appeal. Not being happy with your grade (i.e., expecting an "A" and getting a "C") is not per se a valid basis for appeal!!

5. Course Changes

The	instructor retains	the right t	o change th	he syllabus	and/or lea	arning system	at his	discretion.
