FWS awards are included in your initial award letter. Students seeking campus employment must attend one (1) scheduled 45 minutes employment workshop/ seminar. A schedule of seminars can be found on our homepage under the student employment tab. It is important to note that funds and/or jobs may be limited and therefore, it is awarded on a first-come, first-served basis.

Most campus jobs are listed on HIRETOUCH for students in late August for the Fall semester, but additional opportunities may be available at mid-year when schedules change.

WORK SCHEDULE

1. Students are not permitted to work during their scheduled classes.
2. Work schedules are arranged by the student and the supervisor. To ensure that work schedules do not interfere with academic performance it is strongly recommended that students work no more than 12 hours per week.
3. Under the Federal Work-Study Employment Program, students may work up to 20 hours per week while classes are in session if approved and up to 35 hours per week during breaks and holidays if funds are available.
4. Students cannot work more than 7 hours per day.
5. In accordance with Department of Labor regulations, student employees are required to take an uninterrupted, unpaid meal period of at least one-half (1/2) hour if a work shift in any given day exceeds six (6) hours.

Federal Work-Study (FWS) Program Eligibility

Students can also earn their FWS award by working in approved off-campus positions through the Federal Community Service and America Reads Programs. Through the Federal Work-Study Program, and its component programs, Community Service and the America Reads Program, students engage in work for the University through public and private non-profit organizations.

DRESS CODE

The dress code at the work place should be discussed with your supervisor. This is especially important if the student employee works in contact with the public. Keep in mind that the student is a reflection of the University. In general, refrain from jeans, shorts, T-shirts, tank tops, camisoles, mini-skirts and other extremely casual clothing when working in an office setting.

ATTENDANCE AND TARDINESS

The absence of any student employee including arriving late or leaving early may adversely affect the department. Regular attendance and punctuality should be every student employee's goal. Failure to report to work or to report absences properly may be interpreted as voluntary resignation. Violation of guidelines and policies may result in disciplinary measures that may include warnings, probation or termination.

TERMINATION

Supervisors are required to notify the Student Employment Office with behavioral, work performance, or attendance issues with student employees.

Grounds for termination include:

- 1) Unreported Absences and tardiness three (3) or more times
- 2) Unsatisfactory work performance
- 3) Violation of the Student Code of Conduct
- 4) Falsification of timesheets
- 5) Non-compliance of timesheet submission guidelines
- 6) Violation of Confidentiality Agreement
- 7) Use of alcohol or illegal/illicit drugs in the workplace

Supervisors will counsel students prior to termination informing him/her of the reason for termination and will submit to the Student Employment Office a completed evaluation form on the performance of the student.

Students, who are terminated for any of the above reasons, will not be reassigned for the remainder of the Academic Year and possibly for the remainder of their term at the University.

Student Responsibilities

Students are expected to arrange a satisfactory work schedule with their supervisor that does not conflict with their class schedule by completing the hiring addendum form.

Students must discuss in advance with their supervisor any change in their work schedule. When illness or an emergency prevent students from reporting to work, they must inform the supervisor as far in advance as possible. If a requested absence for other than illness should be inconvenient for the department, students should make every effort to report to work. Punctuality is strongly recommended, habitual tardiness or absence is sufficient reason for termination.

Students are employees of the University and are expected to be courteous to all University community members and to campus visitors.

Students should perform tasks in accordance with their job descriptions, supervisor's directions and ask questions regarding situations that may arise which will help reduce the chance for conflicts.

Students must act in a professional manner and keep all information to which they may have access to confidential adhering to the FERPA Law.

Students are not to socialize during working hours, make personal phone calls or play, browse the Internet, as well as use of cell phones or texting.

Supervisor Responsibilities

Deans, Administrators and Faculty employing students are responsible for their respective student workers.

Students should not be permitted to begin employment unless they provide a

1. Pink copy of their completed employment application if they are returning to same job as before.
2. Or receiving email from HR stating that student has completed all hiring steps and may begin to work.

Students cannot be easily reassigned; therefore, the Departments should hire only those who are best qualified for the positions.

Students must always be under the supervision of a Full-time or Part-Time employee. Supervision includes providing meaningful work situations, informing students of their actual tasks, directly teaching them how to perform them satisfactorily, and keeping accurate student records of the quality of the work performed.

The following information must be maintained for all student employees by their Supervisors/Department:

- a. Name
- b. Address (home and campus)
- c. Telephone (home and campus)

- d. Copy of Hiring Addendum consisted of Class and WorkSchedule

When students show a lack of regard for assignment, frequent absences, or prove unsatisfactory for other reasons, the supervisor should counsel the students and caution them that further occurrences may result in termination of employment.

Any action taken to terminate a student's employment should be immediately reported to the Student Employment Office.

Upon the termination of a work assignment, a student evaluation form must be completed and sent to the Student Employment Office for each student that is being terminated. Each student should be informed of the decision and reasons for termination by their immediate supervisor.

Supervisors are responsible for ensuring that students are not working while they are required to be in class.

Employment-Related Injuries

In the event of accidental injury on the job, students must:

- a. Notify their Supervisor and then call Payroll and Benefits Office
- b. Complete an accident report at the Payroll and Benefits Office
- c. Supervisor must also notify the Payroll and Benefits Office

If students are unable to report accident immediately to the Payroll and Benefits Office, their immediate supervisor must call the Payroll and Benefits Office for an accident report that will be sent to them for completion.

*UPDATED 2/1/2021

CODE OF CONDUCT

Employees should demonstrate good conduct that is generally characterized by honesty, good judgment, consideration and respect for others. Depending on the nature and severity of the poor conduct, disciplinary action will be taken ranging from oral and written warnings to discharge.

Such poor conduct includes, but is not limited to:

- Obtaining employment on the basis of false or misleading information
- Breach of trust or dishonesty
- Violation of an established University policy
- Theft
- Falsification of University records
- Misappropriation, misuse or destruction of University money or property
- Gross negligence
- Insubordination
- Romantic and sexual relations between a supervisor and a subordinate within the same department, including voluntary and consensual relations, are prohibited
- Romantic and sexual relations between a student and a faculty or staff member, including voluntary and consensual relations, are prohibited

Sexual Harassment Policy

William Paterson University of New Jersey is committed to developing and sustaining a community where all can learn and work together free from harassment and exploitation. This policy is intended to address all members of the university community including students, faculty, librarians, professional staff, clerical staff, maintenance, campus police and security, managers, administrators, and the Board of Trustees as well as any vendors doing business with the University.

Sexual harassment encompasses any sexual attention that is unwanted. Sexual harassment can be verbal, visual, or physical. It can range from repeated unwelcome sexual flirtation and inappropriate, gender-based, put-downs of individuals or group of people to physical abuse, such as sexual assault or rape. Whether particular verbal, non-verbal, or physical conduct constitutes harassment in violation of this policy will depend upon all the circumstances, the context in which the conduct occurs, and the frequency, severity, and pattern of the conduct.

The University recognizes that even the possibility of harassment is destructive to individuals, to groups and to the community. While sexual harassment most often takes place in situations where there is a power differential between the persons involved, the University recognizes that sexual harassment may occur between persons of the same status. Sexual harassment may also occur between persons of the same sex. Sexual harassment contaminates teacher/student and supervisor/subordinate relationships as well as those among student peers and faculty or staff colleagues. When, through fear of reprisal, a student, staff member, or faculty member submits, or is pressured to submit, to unwanted sexual attention, the entire community is undermined. The University will not tolerate behavior among members of the community which creates an unacceptable working or educational environment, and it will initiate appropriate sanctions against the offender.

A. Legal Definitions

Effective September 1, 1993, all New Jersey State departments, colleges/universities, and authorities have been required to abide by the State's Sexual Harassment Policy. This policy follows federal and state laws as outlined in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as amended; N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et. Seq.; Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments; N.J.S.A. 11A: 1-1 et.seq. N.J.A.C. 4A:7-1.3.

1. Sexual harassment includes but is not limited to:

- Gender harassment: generalized gender-based remarks and behavior.
- Seductive behavior: inappropriate, unwanted, and offensive physical or verbal sexual advances.
- Sexual coercion: coercion of sexual activity by threat of punishment.
- Sexual assault: gross sexual imposition, like touching, fondling, grabbing, or assault.

2. For general policy purposes, sexual harassment may be described as unwelcome sexual advances, requests to engage in sexual conduct, and other physical and expressive behavior of a sexual nature.

The Courts have classified cases in two ways:

- Quid-pro-quo: when submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic status, and/or submission or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis of employment decisions or academic decisions affecting that individual. Quid-pro-quo harassment is equally unlawful whether the person resists and suffers the threatened harm or submits and thus avoids the threatened harm.
- Hostile environment: when such conduct has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with an individual's academic or professional performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or demeaning employment or educational environment. A cause of action is established if the complained-of- conduct would not have occurred but for the student or employee's gender, and it was severe or pervasive enough to make a reasonable person of the same sex believe that the conditions of learning and/or employment are altered and the environment is hostile or abusive.

The Courts have recognized that harassing behaviors affect a third party when academic or work benefits are denied because of the sex-biased coercion of another student or employee; or when the conduct directed at another student or employee is so pervasive as to create a hostile learning or working environment. Favoritism or perceptions of favoritism, that result from consensual relationships may also contribute to a hostile work or learning environment and constitute third party harassment.

B. Reasonable Woman Standard

The Courts have recognized that the difficulty in defining the unwelcome, hostile, or offensive nature of an environment may lie in the fact that men and women may disagree as to what constitutes offensive, degrading conduct. In response to this key issue, the courts have adopted a "reasonable woman" standard. Under this standard, attention is focused on the victim's perspective. In the typical case, in which a woman is the target of harassment, a claim would be found to be harassment if a "reasonable woman" would consider the action hostile or offensive. In other cases, the standard of the Court would concern whether or not a reasonable person of the same gender, similarly situated, considered the action hostile or offensive.

C. Examples of Sexual Harassment

As reported in Sexual Harassment on Campus: A Policy and Program of Deterrence by the American Council on Education, examples of harassment include, but are not limited to:

1. Threats that submission to sexual advances will be a condition of employment, work status, promotion, grades, living situations, or letters of recommendation (the threat can be overt or implied from the conduct, circumstances, and relationship of the person involved).
2. Unwelcome sexual advances, whether direct propositions of a sexual nature or subtle pressure for sexual activity.
3. Unwanted attempts to change a professional or education relationship into a personal one.
4. Verbal abuse of a sexual nature.
5. Repeated sexually oriented kidding, teasing, joking, or flirting.
6. Graphic commentary about an individual's body, clothing, sexual prowess, or sexual deficiencies.
7. Leering, whistling, touching, pinching, or brushing against another's body.
8. Offensive, crude language.
9. Display of objects or pictures which are sexual in nature that would create a hostile or offensive work, learning, or living environment.
10. Behavior of a sexual nature that discomforts or humiliates and demonstrates insensitivity.

D. Consensual Relations

The University's educational mission is promoted by professionalism in employee/student relationships. Consensual, amorous relationships between supervisors and their subordinates, or faculty and students undermine the ethical integrity of the University community. Such relationships are problematic for the people involved as well as having a negative impact on others in the work environment.

Moreover, other students and employees may be affected by such unprofessional behavior because it places, or may be perceived to place, the staff/faculty member in a position to favor or advance one person's interest at the expense of others and implicitly makes obtaining benefits contingent on amorous or sexual favors.

Therefore, no staff member shall have an amorous relationship (consensual or otherwise) with a student who is enrolled in his or her course and/or whose academic work is being evaluated by the faculty member. No staff member shall have an amorous relationship with a student whom the staff member has the power to penalize or reward.

A staff/faculty member who fails to withdraw from participation in activities or decisions that may reward or penalize a student with whom the staff/faculty member has or has had an amorous relationship will be deemed to have violated his or her ethical obligation to the student, other students, colleagues, and the University.

Supervisory staff/faculty who engage in consensual relationships with individuals they supervise, or their students should be aware that they are violating University policy and are subject to formal disciplinary action, up to, and including, removal.

Social Media Policy and Best Practices

Subject: Social Media Branding and Marketing Communications

Responsible Parties: Marketing and Public Relations Department

I. BACKGROUND

In the past few years, social media has evolved into a marketing tool that is an important part of William Paterson University's integrated marketing campaign. The William Paterson University Social Media Branding and Marketing Communications Policy ("Policy") was developed by the Marketing and Public Relations Department in consultation with the University's Instruction and Research Technology Department, and the University's marketing agency, Lipman Hearne, following a review of industry standards and best practices found in the social media policies of both large corporations, such as Intel, and nationally recognized colleges and universities.

II. SCOPE

The Policy applies to all academic and administrative offices, including faculty, staff, and students, who create or contribute on behalf of William Paterson University to social networks, blogs, micro blogs, wikis, virtual worlds, or other social media platforms both on and off the wpunj.edu domain. This policy does not apply to private use of social media that is not conducted on behalf of William Paterson University.

III. POLICY STATEMENT

In support of its academic mission, William Paterson University recognizes and promotes open discourse and public dialogue. Toward that end, the University recognizes the value of expression that stems from the professional participation of the campus community in social media activities.

The Policy is designed to ensure that any social media presence that represents any University unit, department, program, or other entity associated with William Paterson University is aligned with the University's marketing practices and conforms to the William Paterson University Brand Strategy and Graphic Guidelines (June 2010). The Policy governs social media activities—including but not limited to Facebook pages and groups, Twitter, and YouTube accounts—that are conducted on behalf of William Paterson University.

The creation of, or revision to, any social media identity that represents any University unit, department, program, or other entity associated with William Paterson University must be approved by the Marketing and Public Relations Department prior to implementation. Any such social media presence on behalf of the University that was created prior to the effective date of the Policy is also subject to review and approval by Marketing and Public Relations.

Additionally, any established social media entity—including social networks, blogs, micro blogs, wikis, virtual worlds, or other social media platforms both on and off the wpunj.edu domain that represents any unit, department, program or other entity associated with William Paterson University—is subject to oversight by Marketing and Public Relations to ensure that content is in compliance with the Policy and current William Paterson University Social Media Best Practices (“Best Practices”).

IV. RESPONSIBILITIES

Approval Process

Prior to implementing a social media presence that represents any University unit, department, program, or other entity associated with William Paterson University:

- Academic departments must obtain approval for the proposed activity from Marketing and Public Relations, the college dean, and the provost.
- Administrative departments must obtain approval for the proposed activity from Marketing and Public Relations and the divisional vice president.
- Existing University social media sites that pre-date the Policy must also obtain approval from Marketing and Public Relations and the college dean and provost or the divisional vice president, as appropriate.

Subject: University Print and Electronic Communications

Responsible Parties: Marketing and Public Relations Department

I. SCOPE

These policies and procedures apply to all William Paterson University academic and administrative offices, including faculty and staff, and any agencies or other persons representing the University who are involved in the design, writing, editing, and production of university print and electronic publications or special projects.

II. POLICY STATEMENT

The Print and Electronic Communications Policy governs print and electronic communications to external audiences. It is designed to ensure that all communications from the University and its individual colleges and departments clearly and accurately position William Paterson University by adhering to the William Paterson University Brand Strategy and Graphic Guidelines, which were developed and adopted by senior administration on July 28, 2010 and which are available on WP Connect.

All materials, print and electronic, that are intended for distribution to external audiences, including alumni, of more than 100 people must be reviewed and approved by the Marketing and Public Relations Department.

This policy does not apply to routine email or other communications conducted by faculty and staff in the course of day-to-day University business.

III. RESPONSIBILITIES

The Marketing and Public Relations Department is responsible for ensuring that the University's brand image is appropriately, consistently, and accurately reflected in all communications produced by University departments. These communications include materials such as advertisements, student recruitment materials, alumni communications, the University website, media relations activities, promotional emails, promotional materials for academic and administrative departments, brochures, and newsletters.

Academic departments or administrative units that request the services of the Marketing and Public Relations Department are responsible for printing costs (either chargeback through the Campus Print Shop or payment via purchase order to an external print vendor in keeping with the University's Purchasing and bid threshold requirements), as well as any postage or other distribution costs.

When the Marketing and Public Relations Department is not able to assist in producing materials, or cannot do so in the timeframe requested, a design template or a recommended course of action will be provided. This may include a referral to a preselected outside agency that can produce the piece within pre-established design parameters. Any such cost for working with an outside agency is to be covered by the requesting department.
