Authors’ Publications
2009-2010
Dear WPU Community,

The David and Lorraine Cheng Library is pleased to present its annual author bibliography in a new format, which we hope you will find attractive. With this edition, we have introduced the practice of using book jacket images to highlight the books authored or edited by our faculty and staff.

Our collaboration with the Senate Research Council and our participation in Research and Scholarship Day continues to be rewarding. It is the perfect opportunity to showcase research that has resulted in the publication of scholarly work. It is here that the impact of libraries is most evident – when reading leads to ideas, which lead to research, which leads to publications and standing in the profession.

This edition also marks the beginning of a permanent, comprehensive database that will include the citations of all publications authored or edited by our faculty and staff. Again, we will depend on the authors themselves to self-report. Please look for the database to be unveiled by September 2010.

We are pleased to honor our colleagues with this bibliography and our annual recognition reception and we look forward to similar celebrations in the future.

Sincerely,
Anne Ciliberti, Ph.D.
Director of Library Services

Stress Less, Live More

New Harbinger Publications

Stress Less, Live More presents a program based in acceptance and commitment therapy (ACT) that can help you train your brain to react to stress in a different way. With the mindfulness and acceptance techniques in this book, you'll clear out mental clutter, enhance your focus, and concentrate on the present moment, so that you can channel your energy into what matters most to you. It's that simple.
At a time when democratic movements are sweeping across the globe, Against Stigma presents a fresh selection of authoritative scholarship and instructive debates centered on race and caste, two of the most potent and divisive concepts in the histories of humanity, sociology and human governance.
This concise text carries the public sociology movement into the classroom and teaches students to think sociologically, to develop a sociological eye, and to use sociological tools to become effective participants in a democratic society. Students gain hands-on training in sociology while experiencing civic engagement within their own communities.

The Sichuan Frontier and Tibet

University of Washington Press

Through analysis of government documents, gazetteers, and private accounts, Yingcong Dai explores the intersections of political and social history, arguing that imperial strategy toward the southwestern frontier was pivotal in changing Sichuan's socioeconomic landscape. Government policies resulted in light taxation, immigration into Sichuan, and a military market for local products, thus altering Sichuan but ironically contributing toward the eventual demise of the Qing.

Seven Weeks to Conquering Your Stress

BookSurge Publishing

The key to effective stress management is having multiple levels of coping with many individual strategies to use against any stressor under any circumstance. The Seven Weeks to Conquering Your Stress program teaches you how to use such an approach to meet the challenge of coping with stress in a changing world.
Final Acts: Death, Dying, and the Choices We Make

Nan Bauer-Maglin and Donna Perry, eds.

Final Acts: Death, Dying, and the Choices We Make
Rutgers University Press

Today most people die gradually, from incremental illnesses, rather than from the heart attacks or fast-moving diseases that killed earlier generations. Given this new reality, the essays in Final Acts explore how we can make informed and caring end-of-life choices for ourselves and for those we love—and what can happen without such planning.
The landscape of American literature was fundamentally changed when Flannery O'Connor stepped onto the scene with her first published book, Wise Blood, in 1952. Her fierce, sometimes comic novels and stories reflected the darkly funny, vibrant, and theologically sophisticated woman who wrote them. Brad Gooch brings to life O'Connor's significant friendships... and her deeply felt convictions. O'Connor's capacity to live fully--despite the chronic disease that eventually confined her to her mother's farm in Georgia--is illuminated in this engaging and authoritative biography.
Covering the physical, intellectual, emotional, social, spiritual, and environmental aspects of sexual health, this textbook uses narrative discussion, case studies, and reflective activities to explore the connections between sexual expression and overall well-being. Chapters focus on sexual anatomy and physiology, sexual identity, sexuality at different life stages, human sexual response, atypical sexual behavior, intimate relationships, sexual communication, sexual dysfunction, reproduction, fertility control, STDs, coercion, and related topics.
