Transition from High School to College

High School

1. Guidance counselors
2. Open access to information for parents
3. Teacher and guidance provide direct support to students and direct students
4. Frequent, usually daily feedback from teacher

College

1. Advisors
2. FERPA and other expectations limits parent access to information
3. Students need to self-advocate and utilize resources across campus
4. Periodic feedback; students need to monitor their own progress

WILL. POWER. 101

- Key components of students' first year:
 - Students take required classes with the same group of students in a community of learners who share a major
 - Benefit from a schedule with coordinated classes, built-in enrichment activities, and time for jobs and family responsibilities
- Sample block schedule for a Psychology major:

MON	TUES	WED	THURS	FRI

FERPA and Modes of Communication

- FERPA – students can sign off on access to one or all of the following types of information:
 - Financial - critical so families can navigate financial and aid paperwork with WPU
 - Academic - Grades
 - Judicial - Behavior
- WP Connect – primary student portal to access needed forms, materials and important information
- Navigate– primary portal for academic alerts, reminders, communication and student support
- WPU Email – primary official form of communication for the University
 - Students must check it frequently and use this when communicating with offices and faculty
 - Alternate emails will not be accepted for official responses

How we communicate concerns to students

- Students will get regular outreach and should be checking:
 - WP Email, Signalvine (text), Alerts and information in Navigate
- Students will get email reminders about paperwork, outstanding requirements and deadlines; however:
 - Their class syllabi and Blackboard course pages are also standard communication method by faculty
- Many faculty use our early alert system or will communicate concerns to students, however:
 - Faculty also use grades as a way of communicating
 - Missing grades should be followed up on by students
 - Students are expected to reach out or reply to outreach if they are having difficulties or questions

How Families Communicate Expectations

Family/Guardian

- Finances – tuition, books, food, travel, extras, work expectation
- Billing – who is communicating?
- Academics – what are you expecting to see?
Conversations
- Work and Family responsibilities – how to schedule?

Students

- Privacy – what is private? Academics, relationships, participation in activities?
- Finances – how much support is family providing?
- Academics – major, what are “good grades”
